[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[illegible]—Startling Disclosures.

[illegible] April 6.—The Times to-morrow [illegible] from an authentic source, the [illegible] of the explosion, revealing the fact [illegible] crime was perpetrated. Or[illegible] was admitted to the firm of [illegible] er, when alive, was a member, [illegible] years ago, simply because of the [illegible]. He had been somewhat wild, [illegible] attention to the business, which [illegible] have been to his taste. He had [illegible] winter in Bermuda yachting, [illegible] recently, expressed a desire [illegible] from the firm. His partners did [illegible] make any change in the business, [illegible] his retiring, but he persisted in [illegible], and finally became so dis[illegible] they consented to his request, [illegible] to pay him $200,000 for his interest. [illegible] papers were drawn up and were [illegible] signed to-day. Young Jewett, [illegible] with liquor, came to the [illegible] hand grenade and pistol. Some [illegible], and he pulled the grenade [illegible] threw it on the floor and the [illegible]. The clerk was killed; his [illegible] broken and he received three [illegible] in the abdomen. He then [illegible] and attempted to shoot him[illegible] head, but his aim was inef[illegible] this evening in the hospital. [illegible] injured by the explosion, is [illegible] to be in a dangerous condition. [illegible] the office of Messrs. Jewett, [illegible] absorbing topic of conversa[illegible] thousands of people who cross [illegible] from Brooklyn to New York [illegible] all return this morning into [illegible] and landing for a while at [illegible] looking up to the second floor at [illegible] of the office in which the calam[illegible]. The building is closed and the [illegible] yesterday to keep the crowd [illegible] have been withdrawn. All [illegible] firm bear the very highest [illegible] not only for probity but [illegible] of character and charitableness, [illegible] who was of a close, surly dis[illegible] ille's original interest was $15,[illegible] got along very well with his [illegible] came and went as he pleased, and [illegible] down to any routine [illegible] standing his extreme penurious[illegible] hesitate to spend money freely [illegible] employment. He keeps a yacht, fast [illegible], and was a generous liver. [illegible] eristics brought him into col[illegible] partners, and he received their [illegible] in anything but a friendly [illegible] breach thus formed was continu[illegible] until four years ago, on the [illegible] annual settlement, there was [illegible] ture, caused by a demand that [illegible] change his course or leave the [illegible] was settled, however at the time, [illegible] producing any alteration in the [illegible] the members of the concern. Or[illegible] grew more insolent, and about [illegible] was informed that his con[illegible] and without further delay. He [illegible] resistance, but one day last [illegible] to Dean and said if he wished [illegible] his interest he might have it for [illegible] would require that the papers [illegible] up by his own lawyers, [illegible] wanted was a receipt for the [illegible] would pay over. This was [illegible] arrived at. Orville went [illegible] and employed him to draw up [illegible] and yesterday they [illegible] be signed. The money con[illegible] cash, had been provided and [illegible] to the long continued troubles [illegible] was promised.

[illegible] Works Explosion.

[illegible] York, April 6.—The Tribune furnishes [illegible] wing regarding the explosion at John [illegible] & Sons. The cause of the explosion [illegible] known with certainty, but the theory [illegible] obtained most acceptance yesterday was [illegible] Orville Jewett was insane.

[illegible] Mining Company.

[illegible] York, April 6.—The corporation ad[illegible] as the Silver Mountain Mining Com[illegible] has an office on Broadway. The names [illegible] president and other officers are declared [illegible] superintendent Walling to be fictitious. [illegible] the company as a swindle. Only [illegible] who can be discovered to repre[illegible] the concern are declared adventurers, or [illegible] ing worse, and the large mines which [illegible] to own are declared to exist only [illegible].

Affairs in Wall Street.

[illegible] York, April 6.—In Wall street to-day [illegible] and rumors were of a favorable [illegible], a fact which naturally advanced the [illegible] improvement on the Stock Exchange. [illegible] ation was strongly in contrast with [illegible] ition of affairs for some time past. [illegible] ance in prices, however, was not so [illegible] might have been expected.

[illegible] in the Tweed Business.

[illegible] York, April 6.—The Herald says the [illegible] the Tweed business is not because he [illegible] but because he hesitates to [illegible] Attorney-General Fairchild insists he [illegible] both.

Tweed's Release Less Likely.

[illegible] York, April 6.—The Times says the [illegible] of Tweed's escape seem failing, and [illegible] ination on the part of the prosecu[illegible] to settle the case is growing stronger. [illegible] thought, the story of Tweed's wan[illegible] was a mere device of his friends to [illegible] sympathy for him. It is now generally [illegible] that Tweed has nothing to divulge to [illegible] others. Tweed's release could not [illegible] for a long time to come, even if he [illegible] the proposition, which has not been [illegible] he probably does not intend to do it.

[illegible] Further Contradicted.

[illegible] York, April 6.—The Tribune prints an [illegible] with Sheriff Connor, on the story of [illegible] escape. Connor spent six thousand [illegible] trying to recapture Tweed. Every [illegible] ground in New Jersey where Tweed [illegible] alleged to be in hiding was carefully [illegible]. Connor don't believe the story, nor [illegible] detectives. Connor thinks Tweed es[illegible] a tug from the foot of Jerome street, [illegible].

Assassination.

[illegible] Smith, Ark., April 6.—Cherokee Tom [illegible] was assassinated at his home, at [illegible], on Saturday night. Citizens of [illegible] pursued into the Cherokee nation [illegible] killed two white horse thieves last [illegible] and returned.

Arrest of the Benders.

[illegible] Detectives with the supposed Bender family [illegible] through here yesterday. The family [illegible] the name of Reocifer, and consists of Joe [illegible], Sr., and Jr., Kate Bender, and Mrs. [illegible]. A detective named Beard, who in [illegible] discovered the bodies of their victims, has [illegible] been working up the case, and effected [illegible] arrest without extraordinary trouble. [illegible] who e party deny their identity, but the [illegible] dence is overwhelming. They were good [illegible], rested under suspicion from the time [illegible] came to Crawford one by one on foot, [illegible] always had plenty of money to buy farms.

A Murderer Extradited.

Cincinnati, April 6.—The Texas officers in charge of Abe Rothschild took him to Law[illegible]sburg to-day and left to-night for Texas.

Railroad Hands' Life Insurance.

Philadelphia, April 6.—General Madagor [illegible], of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, states that his conference with the engineers of that road last evening ended with [illegible] agreement on their part to accept the new arrangements proposed by the railroad com[illegible]. The plan provided by the company is [illegible] contribute $15,000 to the life insurance [illegible] and $10,000 to the accident insurance [illegible], for the benefit of such of their train [illegible] as comply with the provisions and pay [illegible] assessments agreed upon.

N. Y. Railroad Rates.

[illegible] York, April 6.—The managers of the [illegible] Central, Erie and Baltimore and [illegible] have agreed to advance rates [illegible] limited tickets to the following [illegible] effect Monday next. From [illegible] Cleveland, $1; to Detroit, $13; to Chicago, $20; St. Louis, $24; Kansas City, $35; Indianapolis, $19; Cincinnati, $18. From Albany $1 less than from New York, and from Boston, by all routes, $1 more than from New York.

Canal Tolls Reduced.

Albany, April 6.—A resolution reported by the canal committee in the assembly to-day, fixing the canal toll sheet for 1877, reduces rates on grain, domestic salt and lumber fifty per cent.

The Lynn Fire.

Boston, April 6.—A Lynn fire corrected list makes the total loss $100,000, insurance $70,000. One hundred and sixty persons are thrown out of employment.

Naval Employees Discharged.

Portsmouth, N. H., April 6.—Orders were received from Washington to-day, discharging all the hands in the construction and steam engineering department at this navy yard.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Rumored Removals and Appointments.

Washington, April 6.—Rumors are in circulation throughout the Treasury of changes in important heads of divisions of that department.

The President, on Monday, will appoint Alfred E. Lee, of Ohio, Consul General of the United States at Frankfort, Germany.

Montana Affairs.

New York, April 6.—The Times' Washington special says: At the Cabinet meeting to-day Schurz presented for consideration charges against Governor Hobbs of Montana. The charges have been on file for some time, and accuse him of accepting bribes. It is not known what action was taken on the charges, but those familiar with the case express the belief that Hobbs will be removed. Charges were some time ago made by Hobbs against James E. Galloway, secretary of the same Territory, and yesterday J. E. Mills was appointed in his place, but after examination of the case Mills' appointment was withdrawn and Galloway continued in office until further investigation can be had.

Where the Money Went.

Washington, April 6.—Ex-Secretary Robeson asserts that the money for the sale of the Philadelphia navy yard will be found properly accounted for. He says the trouble is that the bureau of yards and docks thought it was entitled to be credited with the proceeds of the sale, whereas it was distributed among the various bureaus.

The Extra Session.

Washington, April 6.—On inquiry at the Executive Mansion to-night, it is authoritatively ascertained that there has been no change in the date heretofore determined upon for the extra Congress to commence, namely, Monday, June 4th.

The Civil Service Rules.

The civil service system of investigation as outlined has been prepared by Secretary Schurz after much deliberation and careful consideration of the views presented on this invitation by various chiefs of bureaus and other responsible officers of the department. It is believed the system will in its practical working not only relieve the Secretary and bureau officers from burdens at present necessarily devolving upon them, but will secure exact justice.

The Whisky Suits.

Chicago, April 6.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: The government is inclined to compromise its judgment on the whisky suits against A. C. Lessing of Chicago, for the largest amount he can raise, and papers to that effect have been sent to District-Attorney Bangs, who has been instructed to push the suit against Rahm, and other "crooks."

A. H. Stephens Still Lives.

Alexander H. Stephens to-day expressed himself pleased with the President's cabinet, and especially with Evarts and Thompson, and evinced a desire to renew an old and long standing acquaintance with the latter.

Compromise of Whisky Suits.

Washington, April 6.—Secretary Sherman has established a precedent for the disposition of all propositions looking to a compromise of whisky suits, a large number of which are now pending before the treasury department. He has taken up the first case presented, which is a proposition to relieve sureties from all responsibility upon payment of a mere nominal sum. After reciting the history and quoting the law, the Secretary, in his letter, says:

> The tax on whisky is so large in proportion to the value of the article manufactured that it furnishes the strength of the temptation to evade the law, and taxation can only be collected by strict enforcement. The law is severe in its penalties, and must be severely enforced. This is followed in all countries where a similar excise tax is levied. A sympathy for defendants who are sureties will not justify the Secretary in relieving them from a judgment when by doing so, he will defeat a wise public policy for the enforcement of the revenue laws. This is not a mere claim such as is contemplated by the section, but is a judgment confessed upon a bond clearly violated by the commission of a great crime by the principal. If the judgment cannot be collected, these sureties are injured, while the release of the judgment would be an evil example. If the Secretary errs in this, Congress can grant the necessary relief. If the law is wrong or too severe, Congress can remedy it. But, charged as he is with the execution of the revenue laws, the Secretary must insist upon their strict enforcement, and must refuse to yield to appeals to relieve these defendants from their liability. Very respectfully,
> JOHN SHERMAN, Sec.

Speaking for the Indians.

Washington, April 6.—The associated executive commission on Indian affairs of orthodox Friends were at the Executive Mansion to-day and presented a memorial on the subject of Indian affairs. The memorial is lengthy, and exhibits the good results of the work of the Friends among the Indians during the past eight years, and enlarges, among other things, upon the necessity of continuing the work of organizing and Christianizing tribes and in favor of the peace policy. The President expressed himself gratified with the favorable report presented by the commission, and pleased to have met the gentlemen composing the commission, but did not indicate what his general Indian policy would be.

More Office Seekers.

Washington, April 6.—Since President Hayes came into office two clerks have been kept busy at the White House briefing and indexing applications for and recommendations to office. Over 4,000 applications have been received by the President exclusive of those received by the cabinet.

CANADA.

Work or Bread.

Ottawa, April 6.—Some 300 workingmen assembled in the city hall square to-day and demanded work or bread from Mayor Waloy. That gentleman addressed them. They went to the Parliament buildings and demanded an interview with Premier MacKenzie, who refused to see them, as he was engaged on some important business. The men entered the buildings and insisted on seeing him. MacKenzie still refused, and they passed a vote of censure and dispersed.

Destitution in Ottawa.

Ottawa, April 6.—The unemployed workingmen of the city interviewed Mackenzie this morning. He addressed them, and said the government had no power to grant them relief. It was a matter for local legislation and municipal council, but he would willingly contribute liberally to a relief fund, and the men dispersed quietly and a relief fund was started.

WEST INDIES.

Business Failure.

Havana, April 6.—Banco San Jose has suspended payment temporarily. His liabilities amount to $1,500,000.

Turkish Views of the Protocol.

Several charges d' affaires have asked Safaet Pasha what recognition the Porte intends to give the protocol. Safaet says it is impossible to reply at present, as no decision has been arrived at. He is seriously displeased with the protocol, and raises special objections to the conditions of disarmament, and he will decline to disarm immediately. The powers are making great efforts to secure peace.

THE SOUTHERN QUESTION.

Fresh Complications.

An Open Letter from Packard to Hayes.

The Commission at Work.

Chamberlain Concludes to Hold On.

Open Letter from Packard.

New Orleans, April 6.—Packard has addressed an open letter to the President, in which he says the instructions to the visiting commission either exclude or do not include inquiry or three essential points: 1st, which is the legal government entitled to recognition? 2d, which is the legal governor? 3d, does domestic violence and insurrection prevail within the meaning of section 4, article 4, of the constitution of the United States? On the first point the question intrusted to the commission does not include any examination into or report upon the facts of the recent State election, or of the canvass of the votes cast at that election. This prevents the commission from all inquiry as to who are entitled to the office of governor and other State officers. He expresses a desire for a searching investigation, and has expected the commission to judge of his claim on the ground whether he was elected or not, on which point he is constrained to think there is no doubt. He says: "I confess that having received several hundred more votes than some of the Republican presidential electors, I did not anticipate that my title would thus be put in question." He says that it is farther important to know whether the Supreme Court appointed by his predecessor, Kellogg, is a legal court; if so, it will assist in solving the difficulty; if his court be found to be entitled to more recognition than the other of a similar number of lawyers formed on the call of any one, the citizens of the nation, will surely justify the commission in so declaring. These two points being decided the commission could readily determine whether sufficient domestic insurrection exists to warrant the use of troops. He refers to a decision of Chief Justice Taney in Luther vs Bordon. He declares it compels the President to determine which is the legal Governor. The fact that both parties claim or risk a claim of right to the Governorship cannot alter the case, for both cannot be entitled to it; if there is an armed conflict like the one of which we are speaking, it is a case of domestic violence and one of the parties must be in insurrection against the lawful government. The President must decide which is the government, and which is the insurrectionist. He says it is understood that Secretary Evarts favors that line of policy towards Louisiana which Stanley Matthews foreshadowed. To show that that policy was false, he cites the statement of Representative Ellis, published in the Washington Republican, in effect that the same votes, board and influences which declared Hayes elected also declared Packard elected, and Hayes could not consistently ignore that fact. He concludes:

> I earnestly urge that the investigation by the commission be not confined to narrow inquiries how Nicholls can be sustained and Packard starved to death for lack of money to support his government. If the inquiry be thus restricted grave wrong will be done those by whom I was called to the executive chair, and whose votes cast at the cost of their lives, has elevated your excellency to the Presidency of the American people. In their name and their behalf, I ask that the instructions given to the commission may be so amended and enlarged that the right can be ascertained, and that the government thus found to be republican in form, and to have been chosen by a majority of the people according to legal methods sanctioned by the Constitution and laws, may be recognized and sustained.
>
> Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
>
> S. H. PACKARD, Governor.

Denouncing Foster and Matthews.

New Orleans, April 6.—The Packard Senate adopted a series of resolutions denouncing the pledges of Stanley Matthews and Chas. Foster, promising the withdrawal of the troops a corrupt and dishonorable bargain, and says they are slow to believe the President a party to such a bargain, calling on the President to furnish the assistance necessary for protection against domestic violence and put down the Nicholls' insurrection, asserting that the legality of his position cannot be questioned by any who do not question the title of the President, that body whose titles are the same, recommend Packard to organize the militia in every parish to meet any emergency which may arise in future. If the President fails in duty, which we do not believe he will do, let the responsibility rest where it belongs. In conclusion, the resolutions express unabated confidence in the patriotism, firmness, wisdom and fortitude of Gov. Packard.

Impressed with Packard's Logic.

Chicago, April 6.—The Tribune's New Orleans special represents the commission as much impressed with the stern logic of Packard's letter to Hayes and with his legislature's resolutions. Both his Houses have an undeniable quorum legally elected. It is confidently alleged Packard has startling evidence touching the electoral college of Louisiana, and if he be defrauded out of his rights, will drag President Hayes down with him.

The Louisiana Commission at Work—Packard Interviewed.

New Orleans, April 6.—The Louisiana commission this forenoon, by special invitation, visited the Cotton Exchange. Shortly before 3 o'clock the members of the commission waited on Packard at the State house. The interview lasted over an hour. At first the discussion was extremely formal, but on the commission expressing a wish for a free interchange of views, Gov. Packard assented, but stipulated that the stenographers who had accompanied the commission should be requested to withdraw. This was acceded to and the discussion was opened by a comprehensive question addressed to Packard: "What do you ask the President to do, and what are your reasons for so requesting?" In reply Packard made a statement of the organization of the legislature with a quorum in each House, and the canvass by that body on the day named and in the way prescribed of the votes for Governor and Lieutenant Governor. This brought up the decision of the Luther vs. Borden case, referred to in Secretary of State Evarts' letter of instructions to the commission and Packard's letter to the President as telegraphed; a map was produced by Packard showing a very large area of the State presided over by Republican district judges who he claimed had to a man, refused to acknowledge Nicholls or enforce the mandates of his supreme court. The names of the judges presiding over these districts, and their places of nativity were attached to the map, a great majority of judges being citizens of the State. This led up to a discussion of the resolution recently passed by the Nicholls legislature, impeaching Judge Fontelieu, one of the native born Republican judges for not recognizing the Nicholls government, and a messenger was dispatched for a copy of these articles of impeachment. Packard claimed nearly all of the judges in these districts had qualified and obtained their commissions under Kellogg, but many as a measure of protection, had since filed the oath of office with the Nicholls secretary of State. Members of the commission then discussed the question, and inquired especially as to the feasibility of uniting the undisputed members of the two legislatures in one body. Packard replied he had not consulted any member of the legislature on this subject, but he believed it entirely impracticable. He did not think the Democrats would consent to any such arrangement; he was satisfied, if recognized by the President, he would remain in possession of the court buildings, arsenals and arms of the State. He continued he had been illegally despoiled, and if accorded the moral support of the national government he could sustain himself without intervention.

Visiting the Legislatures.

New Orleans, April 6.—The Commissioners have arrived. Hon. S. S. Cox visited both legislatures to day, accompanied by ex-Gov. Warmouth, Gen. McMillen and members of the Packard House.

Meeting in New Orleans.

New Orleans, April 6.—At a meeting this afternoon, addresses were made by J. H. New, T. J. Semmes, Charles E. Fenner, R. P. Pinchback and T. T. Allyn. Stores of the colored citizens were generally closed during the progress of the meeting.

The Methodists and the President.

Boston, April 6.—At the session of the New England Conference of the M. E. church to-day, the committee on the state of the country, to whom was referred the political resolutions offered on Wednesday by Dr. Mallatees, reported through their chairman, Thayer, a series of resolutions as a substitute for those of Dr. Mallatees. The new resolutions extended the sympathy of the Conference to President Hayes, and stated as legalized slavery had been annihilated the sympathy of all members of the Conference should also be given to the social and political elevation of the colored people in their efforts to obtain their rights. Dr. Mallatees advocated the adoption of the resolutions which he had himself presented. Pending discussion, adjourned.

Chamberlain Concludes to Hold On.

Chicago, April 6.—The Journal's Washington special says: Chamberlain left this morning for South Carolina. At a conference between Chamberlain and his friends last night, he informed them that he had determined, after reflection and consultation with prominent Republicans, to hold on to his office and not surrender the State House until ejected by civil process. Wade Hampton has given a pledge to the President that neither himself nor his friends will resort to violence. Chamberlain was confident he could maintain himself as Governor for some time and prevent Hampton from being recognized as Governor by the legal legislature. Republicans have an admitted majority in the State Senate, and unless Hampton can get control of this body he will be powerless to affect Chamberlain. The State assembly shall be the sole judge of election for Governor. In conversation to-day with your correspondent, Senator Patterson said in explanation of his departure from the policy announced by Chamberlain a few days ago that Chamberlain had decided not to give up the contest until there was some definite action in regard to Louisiana. Packard, he said, intended to stand firm for his rights, and events might occur in Louisiana which would cause a reaction in the country regarding the President's Southern policy and arouse a sentiment in the Republican party which would compel the administration to change from it. This was a forlorn hope, but the Republicans of South Carolina intended to cling to it until it was swept away. If Packard is deposed, then Chamberlain will give up the fight in South Carolina. Senator Patterson's whole conversation was in striking contrast with his utterances on Tuesday, when he called on Hampton and assured him he would render what assistance he could to make his administration a success, and the impression left on the mind of your correspondent was that Chamberlain and Packard have been in communication and Chamberlain decided to hold on to the office in the expectation that something may turn up in his favor. No doubt but he is advised to this course by some prominent Republicans who would be glad to see the President's Southern policy result in a failure.

Speaks as He Goes.

The Herald's special from Charlotteville, N. C., says: Hampton has arrived and made a speech. He said he was gratified to tell the people of North Carolina that Hayes proposed no compromise, suggested no commission, nor did anything but his whole duty as President of the United States. He patiently heard the facts in the case, and having weighed and considered them he issued the order removing the troops from the State house in South Carolina. This, said the Governor, was all he asked. I have great confidence in the President. I believe him sincere, honest and determined to discharge the duties of his office under the Constitution, and as the Executive of this entire great Nation.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Text of the Protocol.

London, April 5.—Following is the full text of the protocol:

> The Powers who undertook the pacification of the Porte in conference recognize that the surest means of obtaining that object before all, is to maintain the agreement [illegible] the East and jointly to affirm afresh the common interest they take in improving the condition of Christians and reforms in Bosnia, Herzegovina and Bulgaria, which the Porte accepted on condition of itself carrying them into completion. They alike recognize the treaty of peace with Servia. Regarding Montenegro the Powers consider the rectification of the frontiers and the free navigation of the Bojana desirable in the interest of Salfe and durable arrangements. The Powers consider the arrangements concluded, or to be concluded, between the Porte and the two principalities as a step accomplished toward the pacification which is the object of their common wishes. They invite the Porte to consolidate it by placing its armies on a peace footing, excepting the number of troops indispensable for the maintenance of order, by putting in hand with the least possible delay the reforms necessary for the tranquility and well-being of the provinces, the conditions of which were discussed at the conference; they recognize that the Porte has declared itself ready to recognize an important portion of them; they take cognizance specially of the circular of the Porte of February 13, 1876 and of the declarations made by the Ottoman Government during the conference and since, through its representatives. In view of their good intentions on the part of the Porte and of its evident interest to carry them amicably into effect, the Powers believe they have grounds for hoping the Porte will profit by the present lull to apply energetically such measures as will cause that effective improvement in the condition of the Christian population which is unanimously called for as indispensable to the tranquility of Europe, and that having once entered on this path it will understand that it concerns its honor as well as its interest to persevere in it loyally and efficaciously. The Powers propose to watch carefully by means of their representatives in Constantinople and their local agents, the manner in which the promises of the Ottoman Government are carried into effect. If their hopes should once more be disappointed, and if the condition of the Christian subjects of the Sultan should not be improved in a manner to prevent the return of the complications which periodically disturb the peace of the East, they think it right to declare that such a state of affairs would be incompatible with their interest and those of Europe in general. In such case they reserve to themselves to consider in common as to the means which they may deem best to serve the well-being of the Christian population and the interest of the general peace.

Turkish War Funds.

Paris, April 5.—Voluntary contributions to the Turkish military expenditures to the end of January amount to £565,000.

Montenegrin Demands.

Constantinople, April 5.—The Montenegrin delegates had an interview to-day with Safaet Pasha, minister of foreign affairs. They maintained all their previous demands including the cession of Nicsic, Kostchi and Kotutchin, and requested of Safaet Pasha a categorical reply either of acceptance or refusal. The minister reported that the Montenegrins ought to yield these points. He stated he could not give a definite reply to-day as it was necessary to examine the questions again. The Montenegrins then informed Safaet Pasha that they were instructed to maintain the demand absolutely, and would leave Constantinople during the next week in the event of receiving a definite refusal.

Montenegro Quiet but Determined.

London, April 6.—The Times' Cettinge dispatch says everything is tranquil in Montenegro, but no indication of yielding. Great destitution prevails in some parts, but quantities of food from Russia are being landed and forwarded to relieve the population.

A Deputy Punished.

Paris, April 6.—M. Paul de Cassagnac has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment and a fine of 3,000 francs, for insulting the Chamber of Deputies.

The Plague.

Constantinople, April 6.—The plague has appeared in Bagdad.

France becoming Disgusted.

Paris, April 6.—The French government has not decided about sending ambassadors to Constantinople, as the disposition of the Porte seems to be less satisfactory than before.

Restraining Order Granted.

San Francisco, April 5.—This forenoon the Spring Valley Water Co. filed a petition in the Supreme court asking for a writ of prohibition, restraining the mayor, board of supervisors and all other city officials from making connection with the mains of the company, or interfering in any manner with its water. The court granted an alterative writ, and the matter is to be heard next Monday at 2 o'clock. Meantime the mayor and board are temporarily restrained from interfering in any manner with the mains.

Friedlander's Failure.

It is reported that the city banks, creditors of Isaac Friedlander, have intimated their willingness to grant him such accommodation as may be necessary to enable him to tide over the present crisis in his affairs.

Chico Assassins Indicted.

San Francisco, April 5.—A press dispatch from Oroville says the grand jury to-day presented a report after a brief session of three days and a half. They find indictments against E. H. Roberts, John and Chas. Slaughter, F. W. Stainbrook and F. E. Conway, for murder of each of the four Chinamen killed at Lemm's ranch near Chico; for arson, against Wright, Jones and Fay, the three Slaughter boys, Roberts and Conway; for attempt to commit arson against Roberts, John and Chas Slaughter and Holderbaum. Those charged with arson will probably be arraigned on Saturday, and the trials will commence on the 16th inst. The report of the grand jury closes as follows: "We find there has been in existence in our midst an organized band of incendiaries and assassins, whose crimes may be compared to those of the worst criminals ever brought to justice, and we believe that some of them are still at large. We urge upon those whose duty it is to pursue with relentless vigor every clue to their identity and punishment." A great deal of dissatisfaction is expressed at what is considered the hasty and superficial manner in which the jury has conducted its inquiry, very little effort having been made to secure the indictment of a number of prisoners, including several members of the council of nine, who have been set at liberty and have returned to Chico. A correspondent hints that, by virtue of their presence there additional items of interest may soon be expected.

Affray Among Women.

San Buenaventura, April 5.—At Santa Paula about noon to-day an affray occurred between the wife of Postmaster Swiffen and the wife of S. P. Guiberson, which ended by the former cutting the latter dangerously. The trouble originated in a quarrel among the children of the two families.

DECISION IN THE U. S. CIRCUIT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

U. S. Circuit Court—District of Oregon.

Friday, April 6, 1877.

B. F. Dowell v. James A. Cardwell, W. C. Griswold and James A. Cardwell, administrator of the estate of Wallace A. Gridley—Suit in equity.

An agent employed to collect a claim against the United States for a certain per centum of the amount realized, whether in bonds, drafts or cash, has a lien upon the fund for his compensation.

An assignment of such claim to such agent absolute upon its face, but made in fact to enable him to collect the same in his own name, is nevertheless an assignment of so much of the claim as the agent is entitled to retain as compensation.

The term "claim," as used in § 3,477 of the R. S., does not include claims for supplies furnished the Oregon expedition to protect the emigrants of 1854—at least after the action of Congress providing for their payment.

A plea in abatement pleaded with matter to the merits is considered waived or abandoned.

Where an agent has a lien upon a fund for a certain compensation for his services, either by virtue of his agency or an assignment pro tanto, he may sue in equity to enforce his right therein against a third party receiving the same with notice thereof.

When the principal of such agent is an administrator, the latter is not bound to present his demand to him for allowance or rejection before commencing suit against such third party—the latter's ability being wholly dependent upon his own acts, and not that of the administrator.

DEADY, J.

This suit was commenced on November 16, 1874, in the Circuit Court for the county of Jackson, and on March 27, 1876, as to the defendant Griswold, was removed into this court. The transcript was filed in this court on January 9, 1877. It was heard in this court on the pleadings and proofs made and taken in the State court.

The plaintiff seeks to recover the one-half of the sum of $2,580 alleged to have been wrongfully received by the defendant Griswold from the United States on November 9, 1874, on account of supplies furnished by Wallace A. Gridley, deceased, to Co. A. of the Ninth regiment of Oregon militia, in the summer of 1854—the plaintiff claiming a lien upon the fund for that amount for his services and expenses in procuring an appropriation by Congress to pay what might be due upon the claim, and procuring its allowance by the department.

The testimony is very voluminous, and covers a wide range both as to time and transaction. The material facts appear to be as follows:

On July 17, 1854, upon the representation of Charles S. Drew, Quartermaster-General of the Oregon militia, and others of Jackson county, the then Governor of the Territory, John W. Davis, directed the colonel of the Ninth regiment of said militia, John E. Ross, to call into service volunteers for the protection of the emigrants coming into Oregon by the southern trail. In pursuance of this order a company of volunteers was organized under the command of Capt. Jesse Walker, and mustered into service by said Ross, as company A of said regiment of militia.

On August 8, 1854, the company, 71 strong, rank and file, proceeded upon the emigrant trail to the vicinity of Goose Lake, sending detachments as far as Humboldt, and after an absence of about three months returned to Jacksonville, and were discharged without the loss of a man.

This expedition attracted some attention in its day, and is the same that was sometimes characterized by such as lacked faith in the disinterestedness of those who promoted it, as "the expedition to fight the emigrants" rather the Indians.

The money and material necessary to equip and transport the command were furnished by the people of the vicinity with a view of bringing the emigration into that part of the Territory and in the expectation that Congress would make an appropriation to pay the indebtedness incurred in the operation.

Vouchers in due form were issued by Drew for supplies furnished. Among others there were issued on September 15 and August 5, to Wallace A. Gridley, two vouchers for $2,580 in the aggregate, on account of 12 beeves furnished the Quartermaster at 30 cent per pound for the use of Company A, mounted volunteers of the 9th regiment, Oregon militia, enrolled into the United States service to protect emigrants through that portion of Oregon Territory, which is now as heretofore, inhabited by numerous tribes of hostile Indians.

The whole amount of indebtedness incurred, including the pay of the men and employes, was about $45,000. The plaintiff accompanied it and furnished the larger portion of the supplies and transportation.

On February 2, 1871, "An act to pay two companies of Oregon volunteers" (16 Stat. 41) became a law without the approval of the President. This act provided:

"That the act of Congress entitled 'An act to authorize the Secretary of War to settle and adjust the expenses of the Rogue river Indian war, approved, July 17, 185[illegible], and the same is hereby extended to the two companies of Oregon volunteers commanded by Captains Jesse Walker and Nathan Olney, called into service to suppress Indian hostilities in Oregon in 1854.' By the act hereby extended to Walker's company it was provided:—

'That the Secretary of War be and is hereby is authorized to adjust and settle on just and equitable principles all claims for services rendered in the late war with the Rogue river Indians in Oregon—known as the Rogue river war—according to the muster rolls of the same; also for subsistence, forage, medical stores and expenditures, as well as for other necessary and proper supplies furnished for the prosecution of said war; and that on such adjustment [the same shall] be paid out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated." (10 Stat. 307.)

Soon after the return of the expedition the plaintiff commenced operations to procure its recognition and the payment of its expenses by Congress. In 1857 he first went to Washington on this business and thenceforth for the next 15 years he spent much time and money there and in going to and fro in this behalf. He wrote and published petitions and arguments, procured evidence and memorials from the Territorial legislature, labored with committees and members of Congress, and in many and effective ways worked long and diligently to procure an appropriation for this purpose. The result was, the passage of the act of February 2, 1871, which was mainly due to his pertinacious exertions and energy.

In 1856 the plaintiff made a verbal contract with Gridley, by which the latter placed his vouchers in the formers hand's for collection, and agreed to pay the plaintiff a reasonable fee for his services and contribute his proportion of the expense of procuring an appropriation and the payment of his claim. On September 3, 1859, Gridley died, leaving as his heirs at law a widow—Sarah—and 5 minor children. On November 7, 1859, letters of administration upon the estate of Gridley were duly issued to the widow. Soon after the administratrix renewed the contract with the plaintiff to procure the payment of the Gridley vouchers—the same being modified, so that it was agreed that the latter should have a proportionate share of his expenses and a "big fee" for his services—both not to exceed in any event one-half of the amount realized, and not otherwise, "whether paid in bonds drafts or cash." At this time these claims for supplies and transportation furnished Walker's company had no particular value. Only a few persons were interested in them, and there was but little faith in their ultimate payment. The expedition itself had been publicly denounced as a mere private speculation under the guise of the public good.

Subsequently, Sarah Gridley married Benjamin Stephens, and thereby her appointment as administratrix was superseded by operation of law—not, however, until the estate was substantially administered.

After the passage of the act of February 2, 1871, namely, on September 8, 1871, the defendant James A. Cardwell, at the instance of the plaintiff and said Sarah Stephens, was appointed administrator, de bonis non of the estate of said Gridley, for the purpose, among other things, of enabling him to give the plaintiff formal authority to collect and receive what was due the estate from the United States on these vouchers.

On November 21, 1871, Cardwell gave the plaintiff a duly executed power of [illegible], thereby authorizing him to demand and receive for him and in his name all [illegible] on account of the supplies furnished by Gridley for the use of Walker's company [illegible] 1854; and on March 18, 1874, [illegible] gave the plaintiff another power of [illegible] which was "irrevocable," and by which [illegible] the sum of $1, and other considerations [illegible] transferred and conveyed the same [illegible].

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1877.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

In July next the lands granted by act of Congress to aid the construction of the Northern Pacific railroad will lapse to the government, unless the grant be renewed prior to that time. It can scarcely be hoped that any original legislation in behalf of railroad enterprises can be secured for the Northwest; but it is possible that the period for the construction of the Northern Pacific under this grant may be extended. As this seems to be almost the sole remaining thing of which hope may be entertained, all the influence that the Northwest can bring to bear should be exerted for it. The managers of the company express confidence that the renewal of the grant will enable them to build the road. A few years ago the management of the corporation utterly collapsed, and until recently all the efforts of parties concerned have been necessarily employed in extricating the company's interests from the embarrassments attendant upon bankruptcy. Hence it was not possible to go on with the construction of the road so as to save the land grant. But the company's affairs have now been adjusted, and it is believed that but for the lapsing of the grant the building of the road could be re-commenced.

This is the situation. It may not be possible to get the act through at the special session, yet the effort should be made. Doubtless it will be made, and in that case all the influence that Oregon can exert should be employed in its behalf. Our representatives will see the importance of requiring such changes and readjustments as will be best for the interests of Oregon in common with those of other parts of the northwest. This grant, if renewed, would be a sufficient basis for the construction of the road. The company is not now hampered with liabilities; it has many hundred miles in operation, and under prudent management can now go on and build the road through, if only successful in securing an extension of the original grant, with such modification as would best conduce to the varied interests to be considered and served.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Amid the general discouragement in regard to railway enterprises there is one which is pushing forward with ever increasing activity. This is the Southern Pacific. It has the resources of the Central Pacific Company behind it, and its managers are pushing with an energy that shows confidence in their ability to carry the enterprise through. From the junction with the Western Pacific near Stockton there is a continuous line of road many hundred miles in length, reaching a point within a few miles of the Colorado river at the southeastern boundary of California. Before the end of the present year the road, it is expected, will be built two hundred miles beyond the Colorado river. During the past year California built more road than any other State in the Union. The Southern Pacific is almost the only new railroad enterprise in the United States that shows remarkable activity. It is the rival of the Texas Pacific which is soliciting aid from the government, and is getting a great start while its competitor is dancing attendance at Washington with the sickness of hope deferred.

According to R. A. Proctor, the eminent scientific writer, our solar system is in terrible danger. The fires of the sun, it appears, are maintained by the precipitation of enormous quantities of cometary matter upon its surface; and Mr. Proctor thinks that a sufficient supply of fuel from such sources might easily be poured upon the sun to burn us planetary people all out; and he believes such catastrophes have occurred heretofore to worlds as important as ours. To [illegible] look to us like a disagreeable truth he [illegible] some of the effects which followed the [illegible] of two great meteors on the sun [illegible]. The fall of those two bodies only affected the whole framework of the earth at the time when the sun had been thus disturbed. Vivid auroras were seen where they had never been seen before, accompanied by magnetic disturbances all over the world. In many places the telegraph struck the operators; men received severe schocks, and in some a flame of fire followed the pen of the electric telegraph, which writes the message upon chemically prepared paper. If such was the effect of two meteors. The effect of a comet bearing in its flight many millions of meteoric masses, falling upon the sun—[illegible] that take place—can be understood. [illegible] insurance companies, it may be feared, will raise their rates to cover this new risk. Mr. Proctor's essay is a serious endeavor to [illegible] we are exposed to the possibility of [illegible] disaster he depicts. There [illegible] some basis for the predictions of that [illegible] of alarmists, never quite extinct, who [illegible] fancied they should soon behold the [illegible] of the "Last Day." Even if the consequences were not quite so calamitous as Mr. Proctor fears, we should have serious apprehensions that the sudden melting of the snows of Mount Hood would cause quite a freshet along the bottoms of Sandy.

Stanley is still working away to get at the sources of the Nile. And still they retreat before him. It is not yet settled that Livingstone's Lualaba river is the Congo; Stanley thinks it may yet prove to be the Nile, as Livingstone conjectured. The sources of several streams known to be tributaries to the great lakes of the Upper Nile are still unexplored. East and southeast of Victoria are some hundred of miles, is a range of lofty mountains, the highest peaks of which reach an altitude of 18,000 or 20,000 feet. They are covered, even in this tropical latitude, with perpetual snows. It is believed that some of the principal feeders of the lake descend from these mountains. But the great problem to solve is whether the lacustrine river traced by Livingstone from the tenth degree of South latitude for a long distance toward the northwest is really the remotest source of the Nile, as he conjectured, or a stream discharging its waters elsewhere.

Packard is intrepid and audacious enough; he is determined that President Hayes shall not forget the election in Louisiana. His open letter is intended as a suggestion, and not a covert one either, that in sending a commission to Louisiana on the errand proposed for it, the President is simply taking the trouble to impeach his own title. This, broadly stated, is just what Packard means to taunt the President with; though it is apparent to every one that Hayes might have the legal title to the electoral vote, since it was declared for him by the appointed State authority, while Packard may not have a lawful claim to the Governorship, inasmuch as on the counting of the vote, there was no legal quorum in the Legislature, by which body the returns for Governor must be canvassed and the result announced. It is Packard's tactics to try to link his fortunes indissolubly with Hayes, and his letter is a bold stroke to accomplish this.

Late cable telegrams from several European cities which are crowded out by other matters, indicate that the settlement of the Eastern question is as far from being concluded as before the signing of the protocol, which Turkey so far refuses to accept. The Russian government claims to have done all in her power to perpetuate the peace of Europe, and claims that if war shall come the responsibility will be on other shoulders, principally on England.

BOOKS FROM GILL'S.—"The Great Match," a book of the "No Name Series," and "Ben Wilmer's Wooing," of the "Town and Country Series," are on our table. Looking a little into them we find evidences at once of skillful literary work. Pleasant books they are, with touches of genuine humor, fresh sentiment, and not bad love-making.

It is well understood, so Washington correspondents write, that Devens was selected as Attorney-General on the advice of Vice President Wheeler.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Presbyterian church, corner of Washington and Third streets, Rev. Dr. Lindsley pastor. Morning service at 11 o'clock; evening, at 7:30. Sunday school and Bible classes at 12:30 o'clock. Prayer and conference meeting at 7 o'clock. Thursday evening, lecture, at 7:30.

Rev. G. H. Atkinson will preach at Mount Tabor on Sabbath, April 8th, at 11 o'clock A. M., and at the schoolhouse in McMillan's addition, East Portland, at 3 o'clock P. M., and at Plymouth church, corner of E and Fourteenth streets, North Portland, at 7½ P. M.

Preaching at the Baptist church, corner of Fourth and Alder streets, at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M., by the pastor. Subjects: Morning, "The Second Coming of Christ;" evening, "The Science of Light and its bearing upon Biblical Symbols" Prayer meeting at 6:30 P. M.

Taylor-street M. E. Church—Preaching to-morrow morning and evening, by the pastor, C. V. Anthony. Subject in the morning, "Following Jesus." In the evening, "Covetousness, or the Greed of Gain." Sunday school at 2 P. M. Praise service at 6½ P. M. Prayer meeting Thursday evening. All are cordially invited to attend.

Unitarian Church—Morning service at 11. Evening service at 7. Mr. Galvin will read the speech delivered in the National House of Representatives last December, proposing an amendment to the constitution condemning the "Manufacture and Sale of Alcoholic Liquors." All friends of temperance cordially invited. Social singing at close of the service.

EAST PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

The friends of temperance are agitating the question of the organization of a new lodge of Good Templars in East Portland.

A missionary concert of praise, prayer, and various recitations by the children of the East Portland M. E. Sabbath School will take place on next Sabbath evening at the M. E. Church.

The Odd Fellows are about to let the contract for the erection of a new department to their present hall—rooms in part for culinary purposes, much needed for parties and festival occasions.

Much more improvement than usual is going on along the Base Line road this spring. Lands are being cleared of timber, ground broken up for cultivation, and new buildings are commenced or are in contemplation.

The city council, at its session on Tuesday evening last, decided that the old Fourth street bridge is too far gone to admit of repairs. A new one will be erected the entire width of the street, to cost about fifteen hundred dollars.

A little child, belonging to a German family living near Mr. Geo. M. Long's, was so badly scalded the other day, that it soon died from the effects. It had pulled over a vessel of hot water, emptying its contents over its little person. Dr. Rafferty was called, but no human skill could avert the fatal result.

A new public school building, ordered by the tax-payers at the annual school meeting, will be erected on an entirely new block, on a two-acre lot of land, near the center of the school district. The probable cost will be $4,000. The existence of a first class public school will prove a very influential argument in bringing additional population to this beautiful locality.

AN ATTRACTIVE WINDOW.—In order to show the large paintings and other fine goods to better advantage, Mr. C. C. Morse, of the Palace of Art, has had his window enlarged—being the largest in the city. The floor is elegantly carpeted, which adds greatly to its attractiveness. Crowds have hesitated before the window and gazed at the paintings, brackets, musical instruments, etc., displayed advantageously. The change is certainly an improvement.

Rubber gloves for protecting and beautifying the hands. Wear at night. Price $1 50; post paid by mail. MRS. M. A. WARNER.

NOTES FROM THE DALLES.

A correspondent from the Dalles sends us the following items of news under date of April 5th:

Mr. Z. N. Moody, of the firm of Moody & Co., returned on the Elder from San Francisco.

Messrs. Jackson and Andrews shipped on Thursday morning, 46 head of beef cattle for the Portland market.

E. Wingate, of the firm of Wingate & Williams, returns on the Elder from San Francisco with a large stock of goods.

The Northwestern Stage Co. have changed their time from 7 in the morning to 7 o'clock in the evening for leaving this city for Kelton.

John Jack dramatic troupe concluded their season in this city on Thursday night last. They have drawn good houses through the entire week.

A boat with four small boys capsized in Mill creek on Thursday morning. They were, however, rescued without loss of life. A "close call."

Two hundred head of stock sheep arrived on the Idaho on Thursday evening and passed on to the bunch grass in the interior of the county on Friday.

Dr. Chapman, Mayor of Portland, was registered in this city on Tuesday evening last, and left on Wednesday morning by private conveyance for the Camp Creek mines.

I learn that the race last Wednesday afternoon, between I. Talbot's horse Black Prince, and T. Ayers' roan mare Humming Bird, was declared a draw, on account of foul riding.

Mr. C. N. Thornberry, Receiver at the U. S. land office in this city, left on Wednesday morning last for Spanish gulch, in Grant county. Mr. T. goes to look after his mining interests in that locality.

Miss L. Wagonblast, daughter of William Wagonblast Esq., departed this life on Thursday morning last, aged 16 years, after a lingering illness. The many friends of the family in this community sympathize with them in their sad bereavement.

Messrs. D. M. French and Wm. Grant, Esq., of this city, left on Tuesday morning's boat for Portland. I learn that these gentlemen have invested heavily in the Monumental mine of Baker county, and go to Portland to complete the organizing of the company.

Mr. James Blakeny, deck-hand on the O. S. N. Co.'s barge Huntress, met with a painful accident on Tuesday morning last, by being cut with the hawser as the barge was being taken in tow by the steamer Idaho. No bones were broken, however, and with proper care, will no doubt soon be able to be around.

The spring races of the Dalles Jockey Club opened on Tuesday morning last, and continued two days. There was a good attendance upon the track and some good time made. I learn it is the intention of the Society to hold four meetings during the season. Mr. P. E. Marshbanks is president of the society, and it will certainly prosper under his able management.

Good Advice.

Now is the time of year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, etc. Every family should have a bottle of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. Don't allow for one moment that cough to take hold of your child, your family or yourself. Consumption, Asthma, Pneumonia, Croup, Hemorrhages and other fatal diseases may set in. Although it is true GERMAN SYRUP is curing thousands of these dreaded diseases, yet it is much better to have it at hand when three doses will cure you. One bottle will last your whole family a winter and keep you safe from danger. If you are consumptive, do not rest until you have tried this remedy. Sample bottles 10 cents; regular size 75 cents. Sold by your Druggist. Agents, Crane & Brigham, Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco.

We made a careful inspection of the stock at Beck & Waldman's yesterday and must confess our astonishment, not only to find a fine assortment, but remarkably low prices. In view of these considerations it is no wonder the firm do a good business.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. EUGENE ITEMS.

Under date of April 5th our Eugene correspondent sends the following items:

Two hundred and forty votes were polled at the city election on Monday last.

J. N. Poindexter has resigned the presidency of the fire company.

Ben. Underwood will contest the mayorship of the city with Geo. B. Dorris, Esq.

S. B. Eaken, Jr., sheriff of this county, took an insane man to the asylum at Portland on last Tuesday.

A Mr. Wagner, late of San Francisco, is going to open a general merchandise store in Mrs. Renfrew's brick, next week.

Mrs. Odell will commence a select school at the district school house on next Monday, with Miss Ida Condon as assistant.

The haunts of the poets are said to be changed from the front steps of Lane's Hall to the entrance of the Episcopal church.

E. G. Hughes, Esq., agent of the Scotch Loan Company, came up from Portland on yesterday's train, on business for that company.

At the school meeting last Monday, Dr. E. R. Geary and F. B. Dunn were chosen directors, and E. P. Henderson, clerk. A tax to build a $12,000 schoolhouse was levied.

The blasting powder belonging to Mr. Hallett, that was being taken from here down the river on a raft, was wrecked last week about five miles this side of Harrisburg. Some 600 kegs were lost.

Last Sunday night some hoodlums fired an old house that stood in the edge of town, as an April trick, which was successful, getting the fire company out in full force. But we would advise them not to repeat it again or they may attain a not very enviable notoriety.

The city election passed off very quietly on Monday and resulted in the election of the following officers: G. B. Dorris, Mayor; T. G. Hendricks, O. M. Cooper, and F. B. Dunn, Councilmen; Robt. Fagan, Recorder; P. H. Farrell, Marshal, and B. H. James, Treasurer.

The following officers were elected at the meeting of E. H. & L. Co., on last Monday evening to serve during the ensuing year: J. N. Poindexter, President; L. G. Jackson, Vice President; J. R. Ream, Foreman; Johnny Obrien, 1st Assistant, Vic. Behrens, 2d Assistant; J. R. Campbell, Secretary; C. C. Croner, Treasurer.

CATARRH.

Statement of O. J. Goldrick, Esq., Editor Rocky Mountain Herald, Denver, Col., showing the Prevalence of Catarrh and the Popularity of Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh.

"Every nine out of ten adults in this whole region of country is afflicted with Catarrh. It seems to be climatically epidemic out in this atmosphere. Mr. Smith tells me that the three dozen bottles of RADICAL CURE were immediately sold, and that he had forty orders for more within the last three weeks, but had none here to supply from."

The Mr. Smith referred to is of the firm of Smith & Doll, furniture dealers, Denver. When in Boston about a year ago he purchased eleven bottles of —— Catarrh Remedy, and one of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, the latter at the earnest request of a personal acquaintance. He had seen the first named remedy but had not heard of the latter. Shortly after his arrival in Denver we received an order for a dozen of the Radical Cure, and soon another with the pleasing intelligence that Mr. Smith was cured. The prevalence of the disease, coupled with the recommendations of Mr. Smith, soon created a lively demand, and without advertising nearly three hundred bottles were sent out. This is a striking illustration of what is frequently done for this remedy as a return for relief from long and painful suffering

CATARRH.

ASTHMA, BAD COUGH, ETC., CURED.

Gentlemen—My case is briefly as follows: I have had Catarrh for ten years, each year with increasing severity. For two years I had not breathed through one nostril. I had droppings in the throat a very bad cough, asthma so bad as to be obliged to take a remedy for it at night before being able to lie down and sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so full of catarrhal matter as to injure my sense of hearing and compel me to get up several times in the night to clear it and my throat before I could sleep. Every one of these distressing symptoms has disappeared under the use of not quite three bottles of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. My hearing is fully restored, I have no asthmatic symptoms, no cough, no droppings in the throat, no headache, and in every way better than I have been for years. I could feel the effects of the Cure on my appetite, on my kidneys and in fact every part of my system. What has been done in my case is wholly the effect of the Radical Cure. Very respectfully,

Fitchburg, Oct. 14. C. H. LAWRENCE.

Endorsed by a Prominent Druggist.

I hereby certify that Mr. Lawrence purchased the RADICAL CURE of me, and from time to time made me familiar with his case, I believe his statement to be true in every particular.

Fitchburg, Oct. 14. JAS. P. DERBY.

The above severe case was a combination of several ailments, viz: Bad cough, asthma, deafness, headache, etc., each of which might, by the most intelligent physician, be treated separately, whereas they were but a variety of forms assumed by one terrible disease—Catarrh. "I could feel the effect of the Cure in every part of my system!" This statement shows that this remedy acts upon the cause of Catarrh, viz: The acidified blood, a poison which attacks every vital organ and is eliminated from the system only by the RADICAL CURE.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1877.

JUDGE DEADY'S DECISION.

[Concluded from First Page.]

seriously questioned from the first: and this, as has been stated, was accomplished mainly by the plaintiff. The appropriation being made, there ought not to have been any doubt or question as to the validity or payment of the claim. All that was necessary was to show that the price of the beef was in justice and equity, under all the circumstances, reasonable; and although the price appears to have been very high, no serious objection was made upon that account, because there were plenty of precedents for it among the allowances under the act of July 17, 1854 and the purchases by the regular army under similar circumstances in that region of country. Besides, the fact that the parties had waited for their money 17 years without interest and had been compelled to pledge a large portion of it to defray the expenses of procuring the appropriation to pay it might well be considered by the Secretary of War in making an adjustment and settlement of this claim "on just and equitable principles."

But notwithstanding all this, by one means and another, and without any apparent fault of the plaintiff, the payment of this claim was delayed and obstructed in the department for over three years, to the great injury of the plaintiff and the other parties interested. Directly and indirectly the defendant, Griswold, appears to have been the principal cause of this delay, and finally, with full notice of all the circumstances, he appears to have taken advantage of them to get the claim transferred to himself, for a little over fifty cents on the dollar, with the intent to deprive the plaintiff of his interest in it and all compensation for the time, labor and expense bestowed on it, in making it available.

Before the execution of the assignment and [illegible] of March 18, 1874, by Cardwell, the [illegible] upon enquiry by the former to [illegible] that his charges would be [illegible] per centum of the sum collected, and Cardwell then and [illegible] assented to the proposition, so that at the time of the sale to Griswold, the plaintiff [illegible] one-third interest in the claim unless [illegible] in the law applicable to [illegible] which will prevent the acts [illegible] the parties from taking effect [illegible] their manifest intentions and the [illegible]

[illegible] for the defendant, however, claim [illegible] of fact, the plaintiff was simply employed to collect this claim—that he [illegible] upon the fund for his services, and [illegible] no part of it was appropriated or assigned [illegible] security therefor, or in satisfaction [illegible] and therefore Cardwell might dispose [illegible] to Griswold, pending its collection without his consent, and if there is [illegible] the plaintiff for services rendered or expenses incurred on account of his [illegible] in the matter, he may bring an action [illegible] against Cardwell, wherein he can recover damages commensurate with the injury sustained, if any.

But upon the proof there can be no doubt [illegible] the contract and power of attorney [illegible] 21, 1871, the plaintiff as agent or [illegible] of Cardwell, had a lien upon [illegible] the treasury of the United States [illegible] compensation earned, which Cardwell [illegible] or ignore. Story on Agency, [illegible]. But outside of the irrevocable power [illegible] assignment of March 18, 1874, [illegible] at least an equitable assignment to [illegible] of one-third of the amount to be [illegible] on the claim as a compensation for [illegible] and expenses in procuring [illegible] and those yet to be rendered [illegible] obtaining its allowance. This [illegible] agreement by Cardwell to pay [illegible] when the claim should be allowed [illegible] when it should be received [illegible] actual appropriation of so [illegible] to the plaintiff, so that he [illegible] was hereby authorized to pay [illegible] directly to him without the further intervention of Cardwell. The case [illegible] within the rule laid down by [illegible] Chancellor, in Rodick v. Gantez, [illegible] (cited in 2 Lead. Cas. in Eq., 85) [illegible] of the principle," said his Lordship, "to be deduced from the cases is, that [illegible] a debtor and creditor [illegible] shall be paid out of a [illegible] to the debtor, or an order [illegible] to his creditor upon a person [illegible] or holding funds belonging [illegible] of the order, directing such person [illegible] such funds to the creditor, will [illegible] equitable charge upon such [illegible] other words will operate [illegible] assignment of the debts or [illegible] which the order refers;" and [illegible] Court in Murray v. Gibson, [illegible] v. Ellison, 1 Wall. 22, [illegible] v. Child, 21 Wall. 447. In the first [illegible] the court say—"The evidence [illegible] the complainant was to receive a [illegible] of five per centum out of the [illegible] whether money or scrip. This [illegible] constituted a lien upon [illegible] whether it should be money or [illegible] fund was looked to and not the [illegible] responsibility of the owner of the [illegible] In the second case the court, in [illegible] of the doctrine of equitable assignment [illegible] "It is indispensable to a lien thus [illegible] there should be a distinct appropriation [illegible] the fund by the debtor, and an [illegible] that the creditor should be paid [illegible] In the third case the court say—"It [illegible] well settled that an order to pay a debt [illegible] a particular fund belonging to the [illegible] gives the creditor a specific equitable [illegible] the fund, and binds it in the hands [illegible]. A part of the particular fund [illegible] by an order, and the payee [illegible] payment of the amount against [illegible] But a mere agreement to pay out [illegible] fund is not sufficient. Something [illegible] necessary. There must be an appropriation of the fund pro tanto, either by giving [illegible] or by transferring it otherwise in [illegible] manner that the holder is authorized [illegible] the amount directly to the creditor [illegible] the further intervention of the [illegible]

[illegible] admitting the facts of the transaction [illegible] intentions of the parties to be as recited, the defendant still maintains that the plaintiff never had any legal authority to collect this claim, and could not acquire any [illegible] or interest in the fund out of which [illegible] was payable, because of the prohibitions contained in § 3,477 of the R. S., and therefore Cardwell might lawfully dispose of it to [illegible], as he did, free from any demand or [illegible] the part of the plaintiff.

[illegible] section is composed of the act of July [illegible] (9 Stat. 41) and § 1 of that of February [illegible] (10 Sta. 170), and substantially [illegible] that "all transfers and assignments" [illegible] any claim upon the United States or any [illegible] thereon, and all powers or other authorities for receiving payment of any such claim are "absolutely null and void," unless [illegible] among other things, "after the allowance of such claim, the ascertainment of the amount due and the issuing of a warrant for the payment thereof."

[illegible] show that a warrant of attorney to collect and receive a claim may be made under the act of 1846, supra, at any time after provision has been made by act of Congress for [illegible] payment, plaintiff cites Opin. of Attorney General, vol. 3, p. 90. But the ground for the ingenious distinction taken in that case between "a warrant of attorney" and "a transfer or assignment" no longer exists. The acts of 1846 and 1853, supra, as consolidated and revised in § 3,477, supra, put "warrants of attorney" and "transfers and assignments" upon the same footing. Either, if made with reference to a claim upon the United States within the purview of this section, before "the issuing of the warrant for the payment thereof" is "absolutely null and void." Still the Revised Statutes, as such, not being in force prior to December 1, 1873, the warrant of attorney given to the plaintiff under the act of 1846, on November 21, 1871, was, upon the authority of the Opinion, supra, undoubtedly valid. On account of the agency thereby created and as a security for the services of the agent the law imposed a lien upon the fund in favor of the plaintiff for his compensation—his commissions, advances and expenses. But the power and transfer of March 18, 1874, being made after the revised statutes took effect, if within the scope of § 3,477, is void.

But my impression is that the section is not applicable to any of these claims. In my judgment "a claim upon the United States" is something in the nature of a demand for damages arising out of some alleged act or omission of the government, not yet provided for or acknowledged by law. As the term imports—it is something asked for or demanded on the one hand and not admitted or allowed on the other. Worcester & Bouvier, verbo, Claim. When the demand is admitted, authorized or provided for by law it is not a mere claim, but a debt. It does not rest in [illegible] or petition, but is a something due upon which an action may be maintained.

This demand had its ostensible origin in the order of Gov. Davis, a United States officer, and then commander in chief of the militia of Oregon Territory. It arose out of a contract in due form with an officer of that militia in pursuance of such order, and was afterwards, in pursuance of the joint resolution of the Territorial legislature, passed January 26, 1855, directly recognized by the United States by the passage of the act directing its adjustment and settlement by the Secretary of War, and its payment out of the Treasury. There is ground then for the argument of the plaintiff that the demand was a debt from the beginning, and never a mere claim or assertion. But by the acts of 1854 and 1871, supra, it was provided that these claims should be adjusted on "just and equitable principles" and paid accordingly. Thereafter, if not before, they were debts and not mere claims. Besides this legislation seems to recognize the right of the assignee, who is in equity the owner and entitled to receive the money. It must have been known to Congress that the vouchers for the supplies furnished to the expedition of 1854 had in many instances changed hands. To equitably adjust and settle these claims involves the determination of who is entitled to the payment therefor. This seems to have been the construction placed upon the act by the department. The evidence shows beyond a doubt that claims growing out of the Rogue river war of 1853, the expedition of 1854 and the general war of 1855 6 were constantly paid to attorneys and assignees upon powers and transfers made before the issuing of the warrant, or even before the act making the appropriation for their payment.

Indeed, the very assignment upon which Griswold received the amount of the Gridley claim was made to him more than six months prior to the issuing of the warrant therefor. This being so, even if the case was within the statute as between the parties and the United States, Griswold, having obtained this money in violation of or contrary to it, ought not to be allowed to set it up in this suit to prevent the plaintiff from recovering that portion of it which in equity belongs to him.

The defendant also objects, that if the defendant is entitled to recover at all, his remedy is at law, and therefore this court is without jurisdiction. The pleadings in this case were not reformed after its removal to this court. The answer to the complaint contains a plea to the jurisdiction along with matter to the merits. But a party who desires to object to the jurisdiction of this court must do so by plea before answering to the merits; and if he pleads such a plea with one to the merits, it will be treated as waived or abandoned. Chapman v. School District, 1 Deady 116; Murray v. Gibson, supra, 420 S. C. Eq., Rule 39. For this reason the defendant is not entitled to make this objection at this time. But if this were otherwise it would not effect the result.

There is no doubt but that the plaintiff might have maintained an action at law against the defendant as for money had and received to his use. But it being determined that the plaintiff had a lien upon the fund which accompanied it into the hands of the defendant, equity has jurisdiction also. Story's Eq. Jur. § 1044; Bradley v. Root, 5 Paige 640; Murray v. Gibson, supra, 420; Trist v. Child, supra, 447. The latter case is particularly in point. There the court found upon the evidence that the plaintiff had no lien, because the transaction only amounted to a personal agreement between the parties, and therefore there was no jurisdiction in equity, saying—"if there was no lien there was no jurisdiction," which plainly implies the converse of the proposition—if there is a lien, equity has jurisdiction.

The defendant also pleads that this demand was not presented to Cardwell, as administrator, for allowance as provided in §§ 374 and 468 of the Or. Civ. Code, and therefore this suit cannot be maintained. If this were so, the fact would not be a bar to the right but only abate this suit. Henisch v Porter, 10 Cal. 557. But the allegation being pleaded with matter to the merits is therefore to be considered waived and abandoned. But if this were otherwise, the plea is not good. So far as Griswold is concerned, this is not a claim against the estate of Gridley, but against himself upon a liability arising out of his own conduct—the obtaining this money from the United States upon which the plaintiff had a lien, if not by fraud, at least wrongfully and with notice of the facts. For this reason it matters not whether the demand was presented to Cardwell for allowance or not, or whether he as administrator is even liable for it or not. Even so far as Cardwell is concerned, correctly speaking this is not a demand against the estate, because of the liability of the intestate, but a demand against the administrator on account of a liability incurred by him in the administration of the estate. An administrator may incur expenses, including attorney's fees, in the administration of an estate, for which he shall be allowed in his settlement. § 1146 Or. Civ. Code. I doubt whether such demands are within the purview of § 374, supra, and must therefore be verified and presented for allowance or rejection by the administrator before an action can be maintained against him to enforce them. However this may be, such allowance or rejection can in no way affect Griswold's liability in the premises.

There must be a decree for the plaintiff for the one-third of the fund received by the defendant—$860, with legal interest upon the same from the time he received it at the Treasury of the United States, together with his cost and expenses in this suit.

Addison C. Gibbs and the plaintiff in propria persona for the plaintiff.

Six Men Drowned.

LONDON, April 6.—A fishing boat, in an attempt to enter Banff harbor to-day, was dashed on the rocks and six of the crew drowned.

The German Cabinet.

BERLIN, April 6.—The cabinet will probably experience some difficulty in dispatching the ordinary business when deprived of their chief, Bismarck. Conservatives and ultramontanes doubtless hope to profit by Bismarck's retirement to procure a chance of system; yet there is little change of it.

The Standard's correspondent at Vienna telegraphs that the report is current that Bismarck resigned because the King of Saxony complained to the Emperor of the Chancellor.

Liverpool Market.

LIVERPOOL, April 6.—A leading grain circular says: As the week advances the wheat markets increase in steadiness. A few of those in the interior note improvement of a shilling, and spot sales since Tuesday have been practicable at extreme prices, or even a shade more. Cargoes off coast go off more freely, and several California cargoes are reported sold, near at hand, as well as distant at rather stiffer rates. Maize sold somewhat in buyers' favor in this market. To-day wheat is very general and in active demand. Millers purchased freely and speculators have taken a good quantity of white, the value of which is a penny to two pence and red fully a penny higher than on Tuesday. Flour was in fair request and rather higher. Old American mixed corn maintains last quotations; new is in some instances sold at slight concession, but a fair business is done.

The Lewiston Teller says: Every development made upon the quartz veins of Warrens goes to show that the more they are opened to a good depth the greater the certainty of their being true fissure veins, and the greater the amount of ore to be found in a given space and the quality is generally increased.
